City proposes tax hike to fund police, fire

• City officials will ask voters to consider increase to utility users' tax; consulting firm hired.

By Christian Brown Staff Writer

DOWNEY – With budget deficits and spending cuts quickly becoming the new normal, city officials are beginning to explore a controversial alternative for raising revenue this year – tax increases.

Hoping to allocate more funds for police and fire services, city staff proposed the city council ask residents to approve an increase to the city's utility users' tax for electricity, gas and telephone.

In a unanimous decision on Jan. 22, the council initiated the process, agreeing to pay a consulting firm more than $156,000 to help inform and engage voters regarding the tax increase using mailers, polling, media outreach, and voter information.

Devastated by high employment and an increasingly recalcitrant economy, cities have seen sizable cuts to community grants over the last five years. Likewise, all redevelopment agencies have been eliminated by the state.

In the city staff report, City Manager Gilbert Livas suggests a tax increase could help ensure public safety services continued indefinitely.

"The additional revenues would be used to pay for future Police and Fire services," he said.

During the 2012-13 fiscal year, the city closed an $11.5 million budget gap with a combination of layoffs, salary reductions, and spending cuts. Several city positions have also been eliminated or remain unfilled.

Mayor Pro Tem Fernando Vasquez maintains the council is just exploring the tax increase as a possible option.

"I'm not afraid of information. This process is merely to obtain information," he said. "At the end of the day, it's up to the residents, the voters to decide what the next step should be for public safety."

According to a staff report, Lee Edwards Group has represented over 150 cities and public agencies throughout California. The firm's expertise is in revenue ballot measures, having recently assisted the city of Bellflower with a similar utility tax measure in November 2012.

Lew Edwards Group proposes a five-step approach beginning with a feasibility study, which is currently underway. The process also includes community outreach, local polling, ballot placement, and implementation, if the measure passes.

Per the agreement, the city council can terminate the contract at any point during the process.

"Based on the information, I cannot support a tax increase on the residents at this time," Vasquez said. "I support having the voters decide, but what we approved is to obtain information, not to increase the tax."

FRIENDS HELP MOVE LIBRARY INTO DIGITAL AGE

• Volunteers raise more than $30,000 annually for Downey's only library.

By Carol Kearns Contributor

DOWNEY Among Downey's many civic and service groups, one in particular works to preserve an American tradition that is considered a bedrock of democracy – our public library.

Working diligently and without fanfare, the volunteer group known as Friends of the Downey City Library raises over $30,000 annually to support a cornerstone of the American political system free access to information and the open exchange of ideas.

It is not just the amount of money raised by these civicminded volunteers that has such an impact on the local library, but also their success at keeping the library in the public eye, and their forward-looking commitment to keeping the library relevant in the digital age.

These book-loving Friends of the Library have shown themselves to be quite savvy about the importance of access to electronic media. Their efforts contributed to the remodeling and redecoration of the computer room with its 18 terminals. Computer access is in such demand that sessions are limited to one hour per day, with time tracked by the user's library card. There is no charge for this service. The library also has free Wi-Fi for patrons who wish to bring their own laptops.

Eight large-format kindles, purchased by the Friends, can now be checked out just like any other book. Funding by the Friends also led to a new, more efficient electronic check-out system for video cassettes and CD's.

Pat Smith, president of the Friends, says the electronic media services are important for resiand cannot afford internet access Library, the yearly budget is close Tea that will feature three romance to their home. Access to comput- to $2 million, including general li- novelists – Debra Holland, Laura ers also provides employment search opportunities for job seekers, and tips on writing resumes and interviewing.

Asked if there are any plans to expand computer services, Smith said, "We would like to help this happen more quickly. We could do more with more volunteers."

The Friends boast a membership of over 200, and they don't all live in Downey. Jack Gardner, a Lakewood resident who helps staff the book store, has been with the Friends for four years. He also helps to sort through donated volumes, evaluating whether a book might be a valuable addition to the library's collection.

Smith said the used book and gift store is the group's principal fund-raiser, and the Friends are always looking for new recruits to replace those who have moved away or are no longer able to get around. It is a challenge, she explained, to keep the store staffed in an economy where many families have two working parents.

In addition to the used books and magazines, many bargainpriced at only 50 cents, the store sells a range of greeting cards, pencils, candy, and even ear buds for listening to music. Colette Stallcup, the bookstore director, said people are encouraged to volunteer even if only for two hours a week. The ability to keep the store open during library hours has a tremendous financial impact on the support that the Friends can offer the library.

Cuts in Services

Downey's library is a city institution that suffered cuts in staff and hours as City Hall struggled last year to retain a balanced budget during the economic downturn. Staff was cut to nine, and there are no more Sunday hours during the school year.

dents who are on a tight budget Long, executive director of the Friends are presenting an Authors brary services and IT support. Four "valuable staff members" were laid off last year, and De Long says that "It's been very challenging to carry on without them."

The supplemental funding raised by the Friends is not intended to, nor can it, replace city funding, says De Long. Rather, the Friends host programs that keep residents engaged with the library, and they also fund items for which taxpayer funds might not be appropriate.

Crafts and treats provided during story time in the children's section are an example of items not covered by the library's budget. The activities, entertainment, and prizes for participation in the summer reading program are also funded by the Friends. This reading program serves adults as well as children and teens.

The Friends also maintain a physical presence for the library at community events, such as staffing a library booth for Kid's Day in the park. This year they will resume having a booth at the Street Fair.

The Friends feel such publicity for the library is essential. As California struggles with economic issues, Smith feels that library services "are getting pushed into the background."

"I'm concerned about our younger children," she says. "The library plays a necessary role in the education of young people."

Author Events

Many adults enjoy attending the author events in the library's Cormack Room. In addition to sponsoring some of these events, the Friends often contribute honorariums to those events organized by the library staff.

Every June, a special meetthe-author event is scheduled as a fundraiser at the Rio Hondo Event

According to Shannon De Center. This year, on June 1, the Drake and Tanya Hanson. Tickets for the tea are $25 and include a free book.

> Another fund-raising event is the annual Friends Holiday Marketplace in November. Baked goods and boutique items are available for sale, and there are opportunity drawings with prizes from local businesses.

> Famously promoted by Benjamin Franklin over 200 years ago, the public library is as much a symbol of American civic life as is City Hall. Libraries have become partners with public education, and their free services, available to even the poorest residents, are critical to maintaining an educated electorate.

> Library services have expanded and morphed as society has grown and changed. Where once a library might have kept a large collection of road maps and even phone directories, modern libraries now offer electronic access to Google Maps and Yelp.

> But the core mission of public libraries remains unchanged. These institutions, with their reputation for soft speech and decorum, promote the open exchange of ideas and vigorously guard against censorship. They are both repository and protector of the country's cultural heritage.

> Faced with the difficulties posed by changing times, the Friends of the Downey City Library feel an urgency about publicizing the need for public support and recruiting new volunteers. For those who would like to participate in some way, please call Norma Jean Horan at (562) 861-6767, or stop by the book store and visit a while.

Garcia gets 4-year contract from school board

DOWNEY – The Downey Unified School District Board of Education has approved the employment contract for the new DUSD superintendent John Garcia.

The contract, covering the period from March 18, 2013 to March 17, 2017, stipulates an annual salary of $216,769 payable in 12 equal monthly installments.

It is the same salary Wendy Doty, the departing superintendent, has been getting in the past several months because of salary budget

In this regard, DUSD Board President Donald LaPlante sought fit to emphasize this fact, in view of the fiscal uncertainties attributable to lingering questions about the shape of the coming state budget.

Otherwise, the formulation of the contract follows the normal format, the chief highlights of which are the following:

•Garcia will be entitled to 14 sick leave days per year, on a cumulative basis, as well as 22 days of annual vacation with pay as long as he renders the minimum of 222 days of full and regular service to the district during each annual cov-

•The duties of Garcia shall be assigned by the Board of Education

•The Board of Education may terminate this contract at any time upon written notice to the superintendent, the salary rate during the superintendent's last month of service payable for the maximum period allowed

•The Board of Education shall formally evaluate and assess, in writing, the performance of the superintendent at least once per year. The annual written evaluation shall be completed by June 30 of each year, starting in 2014

Upon evaluating the Superintendent's annual performance in any year to be at a level of satisfactory or better, the Board shall have the option to extend this agreement by an additional year

In response, Dr. Garcia again complimented everybody concerned for his appointment, saying: "This is a dream come true for me. I never thought I'd come back home to Downey."

He then introduced his family: wife Nicole, daughter Madeline, and son Jacob.

Doty Middle School

In other action, in keeping with recent tradition, the Board approved the naming of an "appropriate Downey facility" in honor of Dr. Wendy Doty, who is leaving the stage March 31 in a cloud of glory.

Upon hearing the Board's suggestion that perhaps East Middle School be renamed Wendy Doty Middle School because she began her career in Downey there as a teacher, she could be seen wiping away a tear or two.

At any rate, said LaPlante, there's no reason to hurry its real-

For Steve Roberson, community service is a way of life

• Owner of Century 21 My Real Estate is selling copies of his CD to raise money for Easter Seals.

By Henry Veneracion Staff Writer

DOWNEY - Playing guitar and even providing the whistling, Steve Roberson has recently cut--together with his other musical collaborators who variously play acoustic guitar, electric guitar, piano and B3 organ, bass, drums, fiddle, pedal steel and dobro, banjo and mandolin, and background vocals—a CD of 12 songs collectively titled "What Used To Be."

It features a smiling Steve on its front cover, and, on the back cover, a collage of photos that Texas. scream The association between them will become apparent in due course.

dress, 7827 Florence Ave.) across the Steve Roberson's reputation, of course, lies in real estate, not music. He is the broker/owner of Century 21 My Real Estate, which at least for the past 27 years has been a fixture on Florence Avenue and only recently relocated to its larger, swankier 12,000sq. ft. facility (bearing the new ad-

The recently released CD, recorded at Sunnyland Studios in Sherman Oaks and mastered in Nashville, TN, has been priced at $10. It's not a forprofit venture. Proceeds from its sale benefit Easter Seals.

Easter Seals is to Kiwanis (of which Steve is a staunch member and one of the club's main driving forces) as polio is to the Rotary. As Steve is head of his Century 21 My Real Estate franchise, he has committed it to help advance the goal of Easter Seals, which is helping the thousands of children and adults with disabilities achieve greater independence, not unlike the work of Arc, he says.

The firm's goal this year is to raise $20,000. To accomplish this, he is latching on to the spirit of 'Charity begins at home" (they conduct a parking lot sale, and he asks his staff to contribute, say, $150 out of their closed escrows); and the CD is being offered through Amazon, etc.

By this non-superficial gesture, Steve knows he is fulfilling a moral obligation to "give back to his community." His other community service involvements include his active participation, often in leading roles, in such high-profile organizations as the Downey Family YMCA (on the board for some 19 years, twice serving as chairman), ARC (on the board for some 15 years, likewise twice as chairman), the Chamber, and, of course, Downey Los Amigos Kiwan-

Born in Wellington, TX, which is some 105 miles southeast of Amarillo, the now 63-year-old grew up in Bell Gardens, and is a graduate of Bell Gardens High School.

He didn't consciously set out to be a realtor. For five years, from 1972-77, he worked for Pacific Bell as a service representative and winding up as a market administrator after graduating with a BS in business administration degree from Cal State Los Angeles in 1974 (he concentrated on accounting and finance). He wanted to be a CPA, he says, but during this time while still in college, he already worked part-time as a service representative in real estate.

For 4-1/2 more years, he worked for AT & T Communications, first as market administrator, then as an account executive, then finally as national account manager in Los An-

By this time, he says, he joined Century 21 My Real Estate in Downey owned by broker/owner Randy and Patty Martin. He found he could do a little selling and he actually enjoyed helping people buy and sell homes and investment property. When he got promoted to sales manager where he supervised about 50 full-time real estate sales agents and helped them establish individual goals and monitoring results, as well as listed and sold single-family and multi-family homes in Downey and surrounding areas, etc., there was no turning back.

In 1994, Steve bought the company. He was to occupy the company's old offices on Florence Ave. for the next 19 years until he moved to his new digs across the street. He maintains a staff complement of some 107 agents, 12 staff, 2 escrow officers, and 2 loan representatives. The number will vary from time to time, of course. In his experience, agents come and go: the grittiest and best producing agents stay on. His firm conducts continuous training all year round. He says out of, say, 30 who take the basic test, only a handful pass. Out of this handful, a small percentage are able to get their license. Out of this remainder, a still smaller, minuscule number stay the course. The ones who survive the process may in the end turn out not to possess the needed fortitude and persistence. It's a tough process, he says, thus the training never stops: real estate classes are held year round.

The key is efficient and consistent production, and he emphasizes competence, professionalism, integrity, ideal ethical standards and, above all, the desire, nay the passion, to help people. There's no ifs and buts about this, he says. If somebody is not up to snuff, out he/she goes. It's a tough career, he says, but then again, it's a highly rewarding one.

Steve apparently is one who's made of really sterner stuff. His time spent in active volunteerism with Arc, the Chamber, YMCA, and the Kiwanis Club would not be possible, he says, were it not for the luxury of time allowed him by his effort (and success) in meeting both financial and professional real estate standards.

It is the reason why he was able, in 2006, to buy his 150-acre ranch in Wellington, Texas, which is a favorite destination about five times a year. The ranch has 20 cows, a bull, and a couple of horses. His two six-year-old grandkids, Jake (offspring, together with 3-year-old Abbie, of son Josh) and Mattie (offspring, along with a 2-1/2 year-old sibling of his other son Pat) share his love of horses, so they go with him.

Actually, he says, visiting the ranch is not the real reason why they go but rather to visit his 82-year-old mom (his dad passed away only last November). At any rate, he says none of these extra activities would be possible were it not for his thriving real estate operation he runs with wife Darlene, who handles the administrative stuff.

"We both work hard. Darlene works longer hours than I. We don't take a lot of vacations," Steve adds.

Downey residents for 25 years, the family moved to Fullerton in Finding that they really enjoyed the process of producing their first CD (writing/contributing to the writing, structuring the whole thing, etc.), the 3-member core group of collaborators, including Steve, have indicated that they may produce another one in the near future.

A LOOK AT DOWNEY'S LEADING DOCTORS

MEET SOME OF DOWNEY'S FINEST NEIGHBORHOOD PHYSICIANS

More than 16 years ago AppleCare Medical Group was formed right here in Downey. At the time it was known as Downey IPA and most of its physicians worked in Downey and had privileges at Downey Regional Medical Center.

Over the years AppleCare has worked hard to improve the way that it delivers care to its members. It has expanded its network of specialists, embraced the latest technology like Electronic Medical Records (EMR) and has increased its ability to provide options for its members by contracting with most of the commercial and Medicare health plans in the area. Most recently AppleCare became a Medicare approved Accountable Care Organization (ACO).

But the one thing that hasn't changed is the commitment AppleCare physicians have to their community. Many of their more than 800 primary care and specialist private-practice, independent physicians still practice medicine right here in Downey and the surrounding cities. They are dedicated to providing you and your family members with the highest level of health care possible. And they hold on to one simple philosophy: "The patient's needs come first."

Here we have listed some of the physicians in the Downey Area. If you are looking for a new doctor or are trying to find a way to get back to one of these doctors, please contact AppleCare Medical Group and they can guide you on how to do that. AppleCare is composed of independent physicians who run his or her own practices.

Please call (800) 460-5051 for more information on our network of physicians or visit AppleCareMedical.com

Additional slots opened for stroke prevention fair

• Free stroke screenings are available Wednesday, but spaces are filling up fast.

By Greg Waskul Rancho Los Amigos Foundation

DOWNEY – The RTH Stroke Foundation has done hundreds of seminars and screenings in Los Angeles and Orange County, so when they scheduled a Stroke Prevention Seminar featuring free carotid artery screenings from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Feb. 27 in Downey, they knew what to expect.

But when a front-page story in The Downey Patriot about the event was published, the RTH Stroke Foundation phone began to ring. And ring. And ring.

"The phone never stopped ringing all day," said RTH Stroke Foundation Office Manager Joanne Massaglia. "We got 80 registrations that first day, which is four times more than we ever received in one day. My colleagues Janet French, Alyson Peterson and Guy Navarro were also amazed by the response by the citizens of Downey to this free event, because every slot for the seminar was filled by the time we went home that Friday night. Nothing like this had ever happened to us before."

The record-breaking response was exciting news for the RTH Stroke Foundation and its partners for a new Primary Stroke Prevention initiative in Downey, the Rancho Los Amigos

Foundation, Rio Hondo Event Center three times as many as we've ever and The Downey Patriot. had for one of our seminars," Debo-

"We were thrilled that so many people wanted to attend this seminar," said RTH Stroke Foundation President and Downey native Deborah Massaglia. "The response shows that Mayor Mario Guerra was right when he said that the citizens of Downey are truly interested in improving their health."

As the weekend progressed, the telephone continued to ring. And when Joanne and Janet checked the RTH Stroke Foundation message machine Monday morning, it was filled with an additional 65 calls from people hoping to attend the event.

"Luckily, Mark Shelton of Rio Hondo, who is providing the space, audio visual and refreshments for the event at no cost, was able to give us the second of his three rooms so that we had room to accommodate 180 people," RTH Stroke Foundation Executive Director Guy Navarro said. "We are very grateful for Mark's public-spirited support, because providing these extra carotid artery screenings could save someone's life."

But the citizens of the greater Downey area weren't done. When reservations reached 180 two days later, there again was no space for additional attendees. So Mark added the third room, which meant that the Stroke Prevention Seminar would use every inch of space in the Event Center's ballroom.

226 reservations so far

A total of 226 people have registered for the event. "This is nearly three times as many as we ve ever had for one of our seminars," Deborah said. "The response from the community is tremendous."

"This is a great opportunity for people to learn how to avoid having a stroke and to get a free and potentially life-saving carotid artery screening, which can cost as much as $500 in a doctor's office," Mayor Guerra said. "We are very thankful to the RTH Stroke Foundation, Rancho Los Amigos Foundation, Rio Hondo Event Center and The Downey Patriot for making this important seminar available for free to the citizens of Downey."

Additional seminar slots open

"I am pleased to announce that we have just opened another 150 slots for the event," Deborah said. "We suggest that anyone who is interested in attending should call (888) 794-9466 to register as soon as possible. Based on what we have seen so far, these slots will be filled soon."

Rancho CEO Jorge Orozco put the importance of stroke prevention into focus: "Stroke is so prevalent in our community that more than twothirds of new Rancho patients come to the hospital because of a stroke," he said. "Our clinicians recommend that everyone learn more about preventing a stroke, not only for their own health, but also for health of those they love."

"Stroke is highly preventable," Deborah said. "In fact, more than 80% of strokes can be prevented. The mission of the RTH Stroke Foundation is to do everything possible to help people avoid having a stroke."

Legacy of Roxanna Todd Hodges

The RTH Stroke Foundation is named for Roxanna Todd Hodges, a community leader who suffered several major strokes. Her understanding of the critical need for Stroke awareness and treatment advances led her to establish the Foundation in 1996. Her last words spoken before she passed away in 2011 were "Strike out stroke wherever you can."

Last year the RTH Stroke Foundation announced a $6-million gift to establish the Roxanna Todd Hodges Comprehensive Stroke Clinic and the Roxanna Todd Hodges Transient Ischemic Attack (TIA) program at USC's Keck School of Medicine. The clinic will provide a multidisciplinary approach to the diagnosis, treatment and care of patients experiencing stroke or acute neurological events and related conditions. It also will encompass outpatient care, inpatient care and research.

"Stroke is the leading cause of disability in this country, more than motor vehicle accidents or Alzheimer's disease or any other condition," Deborah said. "Yet stroke is a very preventable disease.

"That's why we're so proud to be involved with our partners in creating a highly effective long-term program of stroke education and prevention," she said. "We invite all our friends in this wonderful city to join us on this exciting journey to better health!"

Police release video of fatal shooting

DOWNEY – Police have released surveillance camera images and video of three suspects in last month's fatal shooting at Gloria's Mexican restaurant, hoping they will generate leads from the public.

The male victim, later identified as 25-year-old Christian Cervantes, was shot several times at about 8:30 p.m. on Jan. 20. He died at a local hospital.

Police say Cervantes was involved in a fight in the restaurant's parking lot. Surveillance video shows two men involved in the scuffle leave in a white four-door sedan and later return.

Three men appear to approach Cervantes from behind and one of the men shoots from a silver handgun. They then fled.

All three suspects appear to be Hispanic men in their early 20s. One of the suspects has a thin build and was wearing an unbuttoned, long-sleeved shirt with a white T-shirt underneath, blue jeans and a baseball cap.

The second suspect has a thick build and was wearing a dark-colored T-shirt with an unknown logo on the front, and dark pants.

The third suspect has a thin build and was wearing dark pants and a red T-shirt with a logo on the front.

The men fled in black sedan - possibly a Nissan Altima - and a white four-door car, maybe a Honda or Acura.

Anyone with information on the suspects' identities is asked to call the Downey Police Department at (562) 904-2308 or Detective Steve Aubuchon at (562) 904-2361.

Conrad Spirit of Innovation contest. As finalists, they will present their design to a panel of experts from the engineering and business worlds at the NASA Johnson Space Center in Houston Scheduled for April 10-13, they will compete against teams from across the nation and eight international teams. Grand prize is a $10,000 grant to produce their design.

In addition to the Conrad design contest, Warren has four robotics teams competing in the semifinals of the NASA Engineering Design Challenge, where teams design parts for the James Webb Telescope.

"This is quite an accomplishment considering only 20 teams are selected nationwide, so Warren is representing 20 percent of the semi-finalists," said principal John Harris. "Hopefully we can make the finals where they will travel to the NASA Goddard Space Flight Center in Maryland."

Warren has teams in each of the two design categories making for the possibility of a Warren sweep of the contest.

Letters to the Editor:

Exercise tower

It is such a pleasure, for most of us, to attain a high vantage point and look out over the landscape. Downey resides on a flat, alluvial plain; consequently, there are no high points from which to gaze.

My suggestion would be to rectify this circumstance by building a 100ft. or higher exercise tower. Many people use the parks for their exercise jog or walk, and it would be a great way to finish their routine by climbing stairs up to an observation platform and chatting with their fellow exercis-

If there is World Trade Center steel still available to incorporate into monuments, perhaps the tower could have a commemorative piece of steel welded at the top for people to touch as they complete their exercise rou-

It would be the sort of unique thing that would set Downey apart from surrounding communities. In order to do something bold, you need visionaries who can capture the people's imagination and sell them on the idea. Perhaps Mayor Mario Guerra or Councilman Alex Saab could fill the bill.

Expensive to build? Certainly! But many professionals live here in Downey and surely an architect might agree to design it pro bono in order to gain name recognition or simply because he or she was intrigued by the

You could sell tickets for a drawing to name the tower, sell space on the tower for plaques for families to memorialize deceased loved ones. You could, perhaps, take the direct approach and ask people to contribute, simply because they like the idea and want to see something truly unique get built here in Downey. Fundraisers are only limited by the imaginations of the people contriving them.

Undoubtedly, the city's legal brain trust would oppose such an idea, on

Many of us as children enjoyed teeter-totters and merry-go-rounds but they are no longer seen in our parks, thanks to personal injury lawyers. The lawyers have effectively forced us to wear societal strait jackets as to what we can and cannot do and build. The end result is that cities across the Southland have become more and more homogeneous and cookie-cutter

C'mon, can't we break the mold and do something exciting and new here in Downey?

Dear Editor:

Congratulations to the Downey Firecrackers. I went to the game and it was so intense to see such young girls play their hearts out.

They played so well and I'm very proud of the coach and his girls. Good luck in the state championship. We wish you the best.

Spanish history

Dear Editor:

This is in reference to the question asked in the letter "Columbia Landing" submitted by Mr. David Abney last week.

The name "Tierra Luna" is Spanish for "moon's soil." How did it come about? It comes from the rich Hispanic history and culture of California.

In reading the history books on California, the first explorer in California was the Portuguese explorer Cabrillo in 1542. He landed in what is now San Diego bay.

The Spanish colonial period of California stretched from 1769 to 1821. Mexico governed California, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Utah and parts of Wyoming and Colorado from 1821-1848.

There lies the reasons for so many Spanish names in the southwestern Using either Columbia Landing or Tierra Luna for the name of an unneeded mall in Downey is fine with me.

Actions of a madman

Dear Editor:

This is a response to Margaret Hittinger. ("Christopher Dorner," Letters to the Editor, 2/14/13)

Behind that smiling face lurked a murderer. Dorner had mental issues before his firing from LAPD. People are laid off or fired from their jobs every day. They don't become murderers or seek revenge on innocent people unless they had mental problems to begin with.

Hittinger stated that Dorner went to Iraq and killed women and children. Where did she get that information? She disgraced Dorner with that statement. Dorner was an intelligence officer and proudly performed his duty. He lost his security clearance due to his firing from LAPD. That is the reality of a critical job in the Navy.

Hittinger obviously hates the United States. She cannot blame our country for the actions of a madman. I suggest that she do something to help our country.

If she wants to help our veterans with mental and physical disabilities, she can donate her time and money to organizations such as Wounded War-

As the song goes, "Smiling faces tell lies."

Robert Rodriguez Downey

Dear Editor:

I don't know where to start when responding to Margaret Hittinger's editorial of Christopher Dorner.

My first impression is that Ms. Hittinger has probably never blamed herself for anything. It's the other guy! It's us against them. Somebody or something is always out to get you.

It must be a comforting feeling knowing that if things don't go your way, you must have been a victim. I'll bet that Ms. Hittinger is part of a growing group of liberals who believe in moral relativity. Heck, what' the difference between a Palestinian who straps a bomb to his/her chest killing innocent people or the police setting fire to a four-time murderer holed up in a cabin? Murder is murder, right?

I wonder if Ms. Hittinger would have felt the same if a loved one of hers was murdered by this monster.

Ms. Hittinger's moral compass is in need of a tune up. Amazing that one can tell so much about another simply by seeing him on television. Pictures of Hitler radiate love and kindness. Pol Pot seemed to be a swell guy to me! Mao appeared to have so much compassion for others. I've never met Hugo Chavez but on television he looks like a sweet Venezuelan man.

The fact is that Dorner was problematic before, during and after his stints in the military and police. America the beautiful simply supplied this "victocrat" the freedom and opportunity that no other country would.

Most of us appreciate living in this greatest nation on God's green earth. Ms. Hittinger never will.

Carl Vesper

Downey

Dear Editor:

I was simply stunned to read the bumbling moral obliviousness of Ms. Hittinger's letter about the "poor" Mr. Dorner.

We do indeed, it seems, live in a time of deep moral confusion when murderers like Mr. Dorner have fan clubs on Facebook and defenders in local papers. I have often thought that the "psychology" crowd – of which Ms. Hittinger appears to be a member – has done way more damage to our culture than good because of their insistent and annoying tendency to excuse any and all immoral behavior as the result of some bad experience in one's past.

No matter what the responsibility-shirkers say, people control their behavior and make choices to act morally or immorally. Hundreds of thou-One of today's panels was classic: the one where the dog is talking sands of veterans have returned from the horrors of war – none of them fought for money, as Ms. Hittinger foolishly asserts - to lead perfectly moral and upstanding lives. I'm sure they have struggles and I would bet money that many of them are not getting the proper support from our government that they deserve because of the backward budget-priority list of our current administration, but good cops – good people of any profession – don't murder innocent people, even if they feel they were unjustly fired.

What would Martin Luther King Jr. do?

Alaina Niemann

Enforcing the law

Downey

In a televised news briefing last night (Feb. 12) concerning the – at that time – unconfirmed death of Christopher Dorner in a burning cabin in Angeles Oaks in the San Bernardino Mountains, a spokesman for the Los Angeles Police Department vowed that the LAPD would conduct an extensive investigation and prosecute to the fullest extent of the law any person who was found to have aided, abetted or any way assisted Dorner in his crime spree. And, well they should.

The police should also be that diligent in prosecuting all those people who aided and abetted all the pedophile priests who are so much in the news the past several years. One name, Roger Mahoney, comes to mind immediately. Then they could start on a real crusade and begin prosecuting all the people in public office who have taken a solemn oath of office and swore to uphold the laws of our country and have done nothing to enforce our immigration laws, even when they have had the illegals in custody.

I guess that is one of the perks of public office and law enforcement; you get to pick and choose which laws you wish to enforce and which you want to ignore.

Jim Lucas Downey

Check thieves

Dear Editor:

I am very disappointed with the Letters to the Editor in last week's Really? People are upset with the naming of a new shopping mall that Downey does not need (seeing that they can not occupy those we already have built)? How about getting mad and upset that someone is taking mail out of the mailboxes in Downey and nothing is being done to alert Downey residents.

I am a caregiver for a wonderful 92-year-old longtime Downey resident who mailed a check payable to the IRS for $2,000. The check was taken from the Downey post office, washed and rewritten to a person she does not know and cashed at her Downey bank for $850.

Now that is a problem Downey residents need to be made aware of and what is Downey going to do about it?

Nancy Long Downey

State of the Union

I was disappointed that the President didn't offer anything positive or practical in his State of the Union message to Congress so I offer my statement as an alternative. I propose the following:

On Immigration: Offer every foreign student about to graduate with a B.S., M.S, PhD or professional degree in Science or Engineering an immigrant visa so they can stay and work in this country. This would keep them from returning to their native lands where they would create business that would eventually compete with the U.S. plus it would alleviate the shortage of scientists and engineers that the country will face soon because of the lack of young Americans studying science and engineering.

On Illegal Immigration: I offer a non-engineering solution. An engineering solution would be to create more roads to alleviate traffic congestion. A non-engineering solution would be to close roads so that people get so fed up that they'll leave and reduce traffic congestion. I propose to fine corporations, companies and individuals with a $10,000 fine and 1 year in jail for every illegal immigrant they employ. This will motivate them to not hire illegals. Since there will be no jobs, and that is the only reason they came, illegals will go back to their native countries. Problem solved.

On Taxing the Rich: Eliminate income taxes for everyone making $1 million or more. That would give them more money to spend in restaurants, vacations, domestic help, etc. This would create more jobs and reduce the unemployment rate and it would be more effective that any stimulus that the government could do to the economy.

The President has made an argument that the rich don't pay their fair share. Little has been said about the philanthropic bent of the rich. Bill Gates and Warren Buffet are only a small sample of people that are leaving their multibillion dollar estates to society. It also ignores the work of foundations created by rich people to help society. The Rockefeller and Ahmanson foundations are but two examples of rich people generosity towards their country. That should more than compensate for the low taxes that rich people supposedly have paid.

On Entitlements: Maintain Social Security and Medicare. Eliminate every other social program especially Welfare. This would create a work ethic since hungry people will be forced to find a job because they'll be listening to the only voice that never lies, the voice of the stomach. Once they get back to being responsible citizens these people will feel better about themselves.

On Education: Identify and emphasize the education of the brightest students with free room and board, special diets, challenging curriculum, internships, free computers and other technical gadgets and free higher education, including tuition, books, room and board, travel expenses, etc at any college of their choice. This will give us the highly educated people that the country needs to compete with other nations. If we can get out of this elite group at least another Bill Gates or Steve Jobs, the effort will be worthwhile. Think about the industries they created and the benefits those companies have done for society. I am sure our elite students will not disappoint us.

On the deficit: I have not come up with anything practical so I'll do what politician do, I promise to come back to this theme three months down the road.

This is enough in the plate and if Congress acts on this plan we will not have to put term limits on them since they would have done some real work for a change.

Children: our greatest green legacy

By Jeff Feldman

On March 25, 2012 my wife Kristin and I made a lifestyle choice, which, by all accounts, will have the most egregious environmental impact of our lives. We gave birth to a child.

Naturally, we were thrilled at this truly wondrous event. As any parent will tell you, having a baby is among the greatest joys one can know. Yet at the same time, my green conscience questioned me: What impact will my child have on It's hard to argue with the numbers. Despite all the effort Kristin and I put into being good upstanding environmental citizens - living in an energy-efficient home, raising some of our own food, recycling - the carbon legacy and greenhouse gas impact of our child will overshadow by 20 times all of our green do-gooder acts, concludes a 2009 Oregon State University study. In the United States, the long-term environmental impact of each new baby will be at least five times that of a child born in China. The average American consumes over 25 times more resources than the average person from a developing country. Put another way, parents in a developing country would need to have 25 children before causing the same environmental impact as the single child we brought into the world – a sobering statistic. Our child's environmental impact actually began well before he emerged from the womb, as we drove weekly to doctors across our region, in Winchester, VA, Bethesda, MD, and beyond. Kristin and I joked at one point about naming our son "Carbon Footprint Feldman". In the end, we simply called him JJ – at least conserving letters of the alphabet! JJ may indeed grow up to be yet another typical American consumer, wasteful of energy, food, and water, a buyer of "stuff" that contributes to the depletion of natural resources and global pollution. But is his path predestined? Do other possibilities exist? Think back a decade. What was the state of our green economy then? The renewable energy boom had only just started, and the first Toyota Prius hybrids had just been released for U.S. sale. The local food movement was just gaining traction, and the green product universe existing today had not yet experienced its Big Bang. Now rooftop solar panels and electric vehicles are almost commonplace.

Locally-grown food is readily available. Products of various shades of green line the shelves at Walmart and Home Depot. We have a long way yet to go, yes, but who knows what the next decade may bring. JJ's world could see green advances beyond imagining: a clean limitless energy source, technologies that assure abundant and healthy food and water, or a fully closed cradle-to-grave loop for the production, use, and repurposing of products.

The truth is, we cannot begin to know. So what's a green-minded parent to Kristin and I hold strong environmental values, and it is our intent to model them for our child in the hope that he adopts them in his own actions and choices.

We will raise our child to appreciate and revel in the wonder of this place we call home. We will try to instill in him a respect for what we have and how precious it is. We will try to teach him that every choice comes with consequence. We will do our best, and hope that JJ becomes a citizen of the Earth who walks upon her with the lightest of footsteps.

Bathed in our green light, could our son come to lead a life that somehow balances the environmental consequences of his birth? The hopeful part of me clings to "Perhaps" while the realist part of me whispers, "Likely not."

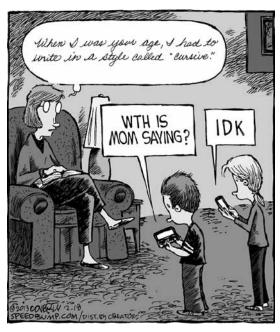

As parents, perhaps the best we can do - the best any parent can do - is prepare our child to live mindfully, purposefully and respectfully. Perhaps that's our greatest green legacy.

Trump Plaza sold to Downey company

DOWNEY – A Downey holding company has purchased an Atlantic City casino for $20 million.

Trump Plaza was worth $210 million when it opened in 1984 but has struggled despite its central location on the boardwalk.

The Meruelo Group, with its headquarters on Firestone Boulevard just west of Woodruff, said it plans to make the property once again an "elite destination."

The property was previously owned by Donald Trump.

"There was a period of time when Atlantic City was the hottest place in the world," Trump told the AP. "I got out years ago, and my timing was very good. But the world turns. They're getting a very good location.'

The Meruelo Group already owns the Grand Sierra Resort and Casino in Reno.

"Trump Plaza is one of the world's most recognized gaming resort destinations and is an integral part of the Atlantic City landscape," said Alex Meruelo, founder and CEO of the Meruelo Group. "Our company is thrilled to have the opportunity to become the new owners of this property, and we are firmly committed toward establishing it as one of the elite destinations in Atlantic City and on the East Coast."

Trump Plaza employs about 900 people.

"We're pleased somebody had the foresight to purchase this property; it's right in the center of Atlantic City," Bob McDevitt, president of Local 54 of the Unite-HERE union told the AP. "We have a very god relationship with this company in Reno and we have a contract with them. Because of Trump Entertainment's problems, they really weren't able to run (Trump Plaza) the way it needed to be run. It's been in hibernation."

Meruelo Group was in the news two years ago when it nearly purchased the NBA's Atlantic Hawks. The deal never materialized

Downey football team still without championship rings

DOWNEY - Downey High School alumni and civic leaders are spearheading a fundraising effort to purchase championship rings for the Viking football team, which captured the CIF title last December to end a 55-year championship drought.

Hundreds attended an alumni event Thursday at Stay Gallery, which hosted a live auction where supporters bid on such memorabilia as signed footballs, T-shirts, game-worn jerseys, sidelines passes and tickets to future Downey-Warren games. While the event was free, donations were accepted at the door.

Downey High alumni showed up in support, including players from the school's '56, '57, '96 and 2000 teams. Game highlights from these past teams (and the 2012 title team) were shown.

Drink and snacks - provided by Bastards and Downey Pizza Co. - were sold to help raise money.

According to head coach Jack Williams, the team needed

$7,000 to purchase championship rings. Valentin Flores, executive director of Stay Gallery, said his venue agreed to host the fundraiser because "Stay Gallery is more than just an art gallery, it's a hub for local culture." "We believe that Downey is deeply embedded in its football teams and we will host different events that celebrate its local sports culture," he said.

Are You Among The Missing? It is estimated that about 46 percent of Americans over the age of 65 are missing six or more teeth. This is a problem because, aside from eaving unsightly gaps, missing teeth compromise chewing ability. Equally important, missing teeth tend to throw the bite off balance, which leads to malocclusion ("bad bite" and increased likelihood of damage occuring to the remaining teeth. Malocclusion also increases the prospect of gum disease and may be a contributing factor to temporomandibular joint (TMJ) syndrome. Beyond these effects, there is the serious potential for misalignments of remaining teeth due to lack of support and restraint from missing teeth These are all good reasons to see the dentist immediately after losing a tooth. P.S. Twenty percent of Americans over age 65 have lost all their teeth. I invite you to ask for more details by calling (562) 923-3714, or Email me at SAZERDDS@aol.com

Bosco hires U.S. Olympian as water polo coach

BELLFLOWER – Three-time Olympian Jeffrey Brian Powers has been selected as new head water polo and swimming coach at St. John Bosco, the school announced last week.

Powers was a member of the '04, '08 and '12 U.S. men's national team and a '08 silver medalist in the Beijing Olympics. He is a three-time Pan American Games gold medalist and has extensive water polo professional club experience in Greece, Italy and Hungary.

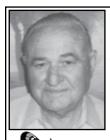

"We are blessed to bring in someone with Jeff's qualifications to guide our aquatics program," said principal Casey Yeazel. We are excited for our players and for the future of St. John Bosco aquatics."

Powers is a graduate of San Luis Obispo High School and UC Irvine. He and his wife, Kirsten, have 11-month-old twins, son Jeffrey Jr. and daughter Avery. The family resides in Los Alamitos.

"I look forward to joining the tremendously successful coaching staff at St. John Bosco and further developing both the water polo and swimming programs into major players in the Trinity League," Powers said.

Construction about to start on downtown housing

DOWNEY – City officials hosted a public groundbreaking event Thursday to mark the start of construction on The View, a 50-unit affordable housing project at 8314 2nd St.

A similar event was held in 2011 when an old Verizon building was razed at the site.

Featuring mid-century architecture, The View will include 34 two-bedroom units, 15 three-bedroom units and one two-bedroom reserved for an on-site manager. All units will have private balconies.

Residents will also have access to a community center, "tot-lot," rooftop garden and more.

Construction is expected to start in March and will take about two years to complete. Housing applications will become available in late 2014, officials said.

The View was one of 12 developments in L.A. County to receive $8.8 million in federal low-income housing tax credits.

It also received nearly $2.4 million in credits from the City of Industry, said Sean Rogan, executive director of the Community Development Commission of L.A. County.

"The View will be a great addition to our city, specifically to our Downtown area, helping to provide local residents with new housing," Mayor Mario Guerra said in a statement. "We are eager for construction to begin and excited at what this project is going to do for our Downtown."

The View will not be the first affordable housing complex downtown. Downey previously used City of Industry funds to develop Heritage Court, an apartment complex for low-income seniors at 8133 3rd St

Willow Bend, a band playing Celtic and Americana music, will perform at Mambo Grill this Sunday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Willow Bend's music has been described as "a little folksy and a little edgy, with just a splash of jazz." Band members include Jim Romano on guitar, Bea Romano on the hammered dulcimer and autoharp, and Stephen Thomas on flute. To hear samples of their music, go to WillowBendMusic.com.

Alex Smick

November 27, 1991 - February 23, 2012

With hearts of gratitude, we would like to thank our friends, family, neighbors, our DUSD family, and everyone who helped support us through this most difficult year. We are grateful for the many expressions of sympathy and for the continued outpouring of love and support.

Alex was such an amazing son, brother and friend, and he touched the lives and hearts of everyone who knew him. Our hearts ache for him daily, but we are holding on to our faith and our many wonderful memories of Alex.

In Alex's honor, we have just established "The Alexander Smick Memorial Foundation." The foundation's mission is twofold. We want to help support the athletic programs in the Downey Unified School District and the Downey Junior Athletic Association that were so important to Alex. We also want to bring awareness to the types of egregious medical mistakes that cost thousands of lives each year.

To mark the one-year anniversary of Alex's passing, we are holding a rally this Saturday, February 23, outside the hospital where Alex lost his life. All are welcome to join us at Mission Hospital in Laguna Beach at 12:00 pm. A reception/luncheon will follow at Imperial Elementary School in Downey at 3:00 pm. With love and gratitude,

MONEY and TAXES 2013

Employing a Family Member

Another way to reduce the overall family tax bill is by employing family members to work in your business by shifting income to them and providing them with employment benefits. Employing your Spouse. Reasonable wages paid to your spouse entitles you to a business deduction. Although the wages are subject to both income and FICA taxes, your spouse may qualify for Social Security benefits to which he or she might not otherwise be entitled. In addition, your spouse may also be entitled to receive coverage under the qualified retirement and health plans of your business, allowing you to obtain business deductions for contributions to your spouse's retirement nest egg and health insurance premium payments made on behalf of your employed spouse. While maintaining the same family medical care coverage, you increase your business deductions by providing your spouse with family health insurance coverage as an employee.

Employing your child. By employing your child, the income tax advantages include obtaining a business deduction for a reasonable salary paid to that child, thus reducing your self-employment income and tax by shifting income to the child. Since the salary paid to your child is considered earned income, it is not subject to the "Kiddie Tax" rules that apply to children under the age of 19, as well as some older children. The maximum standard deduction available to your child in 2010 is $5,700 (projected to be $5,800 for 2011) if he or she has at least that amount of earned income. Therefore, the standard deduction eliminates all tax on this income if you pay your child $5,700 (2010) in compensation. If your business is unincorporated, wages paid to your child under age 18 are not subject to social security taxes. Not only are there significant income tax advantages to employing your child, but you may provide him or her with fringe benefits such as group-term life insurance and qualified pension plan contributions

Your child may also make deductible contributions to an IRA of the lesser of earned income or the annual limitation. These contributions can offset earned and unearned income. As example, in 2010 your child could receive $10,700 gross income ($5,700 gross incom earned and $5,000 unearned) by combining the IRA deduction ($5,000) with the standard deduction ($5,700) and pay no tax. You should consider giving him or her part or all of the money needed to fund the IRA (as part of your $13,000/$26,000 annual exclusion for gifts) if your child does not want to use his or her earned income to fund an IRA contribution. Please keep in mind that when you employ a family member in your business, the wages should be reasonable for the work performed and that the services performed are necessary to the business.

'Catch Me if You Can' hits Pantages

HOLLYWOOD - "Catch Me if You Can, based on the hit Dream-Works film, will play the Pantages Theatre in Hollywood for a limited two-week engagement March 12-24.

"Catch Me if You Can" captures the astonishing true story of Frank Abagnale Jr., a world-class con artist who passed himself off as a doctor, lawyer and a jet pilot – all before the age of 21.

With straight-arrow FBI agent Carl Hanratty on Frank's tail, the production sets off on a jet-setting, cat-and-mouse chase, as a jazzy, swinging-sixties score keeps the adventure in constant motion.

In the end, Hanratty learns he and Frank aren't so very different after all, and Frank finds out what happens when love catches up to a man on the run.

The Pantages theatre engagement follows the recent Broadway run, where the show received considerable acclaim. The New York Times exclaimed, "Hot diggity! This portrait of the con artist as a young man comes to ecstatic life. WOR Radio called it "absolutely marvelous" and proclaimed it "a real Broadway musical with showstoppers to enthrall just about everyone.'

"Catch Me if You Can" is based on Frank Abagnale's New York Times best-selling autobiography and the hit 2002 film of the same name directed by Steven Spielberg.

The performance schedule for 'Catch Me if You Can" is Tuesday through Friday at 8 p.m., Saturday at 2 p.m. and Sunday at 1 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. It runs 2 hours and 30 minutes including intermission and is recommended for ages 10 and up.

Swing Dolls bringing retro fun to Downey Theatre

DOWNEY – If ever there were a way to be taken back in time to when music was truly entertaining – when style, class and pizzazz reigned and soaring vocal harmonies celebrated a bygone era – then a Swing Dolls concert would have to rate at the top of that list.

When three Los Angeles-based dynamic ladies met to discuss the formation of such an act, their mandate was simple: to captivate and entertain with stunning close harmonies, dazzling costumes and stylish choreography.

"It was a dream of ours to bring the style and sound of an incredibly emotional and uplifting time to modern stages," said Christina Challey, spokesperson for the group and a lead performer. "Nobody else was doing it and we felt we could do it with the detail and verve it deserved."

Once they set out to perform music made popular by the Andrews Sisters and the McGuire Sisters, as well as a 1960's girl group review and a tribute to Mamma Mia, there was no stopping them.

They have garnered appearances on television's "Gilmore Girls" and "Your Big Break," and then developed their original variety-style show, "The Swing Dolls Present a Tribute to the USO."

On Sunday, March 10, they will bring their show to the Downey Theatre for an afternoon of comedy, dance and music.

As the show opens, audience members find themselves in the 1950s, enjoying the elegant harmonies of the McGuire Sisters. The Swing Dolls then segue into the crazy tunes of '60s girl groups and then into the 70s disco beat of ABBA.

The show also features swing from the '40s and a tribute to the Andrews Sisters before arriving back where it all began: the birth of the United Service Organization.

Comedian and emcee Bryson Lang is a featured part of the show as well.

"We are looking forward to coming to Downey," said Challey, "and can't wait to bring our show to

Story of stolen bicycle has happy ending

DOWNEY – An autistic Downey woman with the mental capacity of a 9-year-old was devastated when her bicycle was stolen from a local mall.

But luckily the story has a happy ending thanks to generous Downey police officers.

Kayla Bailey is 21 but cannot drive due to autism. She received a custom pink and white Schwinn bicycle on Christmas that she used as her primary means of transportation.

"It was like a baby to me," Kayla said. "It was my baby. I'd go everywhere with it. To see my friends, to the doctor's..."

Kayla rode the bike to Stone-wood Center on Monday afternoon, hoping to buy related Valentine's Day gifts for family members. She parked it outside Buffalo Wild Wings and secured it with a combination lock.

When she returned about an hour later, the bicycle was gone.
Stonewood security took Kayla

The Downey Patriot featured Kayla's story online Tuesday. By Wednesday morning it caught the attention of Sgt. Scott Loughner of the Downey Police Department.

After consulting with Cpl. Mike Pope, the Downey Police Officers Association agreed to purchase Kayla a new bicycle.

"She's such a sweetheart," Loughner said. "We knew immediately that we wanted to do this for her."

Kayla met Pope and Loughner at Russell's Bike Shop on Wednesday afternoon. She was given a bright pink cruiser adorned with Hello Kitty decals. Offices also bought her a new heavy-duty lock.

Kayla also had strong words for any would-be thieves eyeing her new bike.

Mugged in Maui: a whale tale

 Whales lounging off the coast of Maui provide a once in a lifetime experience.

By Lars Clutterham Contributor

DOWNEY – Last Saturday my wife and I were mugged in Maui. Actually, that's a good thing when it pertains to whale-watching in the waters off Maui, where it is said you've experienced a "Maui mugging" if you were held hostage by whales too near for your boat to move in accordance with U.S. marine law, which prohibits a boat from using its power within 100 yards of a humpback whale.

In our case it was two males who seemed to be engaged in a face-off within a twenty foot radius on all sides of, as well as under, our boat. They hung around for about half an hour before finally moving far enough out of the way for our whale-watching raft captain to turn on the engine and make for shore. All this despite the fact that the female humpback they were probably competing for had long since moved out of the area.

There's no ready explanation for why they continued to entertain us, but the gist of their activity was to surface near each other on the port side, for example, then disappear until we heard their loud and sudden blow-hole breaths on the starboard side right behind us, then disappear again, only to surface unexpectedly in another position. Occasionally we could see them underneath the boat, partly because the pectoral fins (that is, flippers) of one of the two were white on top, a rare genetic variation, since most humpbacks are dark on top and light on the bottom. It was a oncein-a-lifetime experience.

The simple majesty and grace of these prehistoric leviathans is aweinspiring. Each of the males, most likely not yet fully mature, probably weighed somewhere in the range of 60-70,000 pounds. With a flick of their tails, they could have capsized our boat. With a good heave of their backs they could have tossed it in the air. Yet, as mentioned last week, whales no longer seem to fear humans as they rightly did during the whaling era, when they were brought to the brink of extinction.

Which brings us back to the point we reached in this discussion meant to share this planet." last week: whales, saved by human action from extinction at the hands of human exploitation from whaling, are again threatened by several new sources of modern human activity.

Pacific Whale Foundation, the same non-profit research organization that hosted the whale-watching trip on which my wife and I were "mugged," has catalogued these threats in a book co-written by its founder and entitled, "Humpbacks of Hawai'i--the Long Journey Back." From this writer's point of view, the book's summary of these threats could not be more eloquently stated, so it's included here in its

"Even if whales continue to escape the harpoons of whaling ships, they must face the growing possibility of being struck by huge, fastmoving ships; of getting entangled and drowned in the ever-increasing drift nets and marine debris carelessly dumped into the ocean; of being poisoned from the toxins that run from our coastlines into the oceans; of becoming confused and even permanently damaged by various forms of human-induced noise; of having their food disappear because of overfishing and global warming; and of being displaced from their critical habitat by human action. Any animal must be able to adapt to changes in its environment to ensure their survival, but it is difficult for humpbacks and other marine mammals to adapt to changes that literally happen overnight. It remains to be seen whether we can control the size and activity of the human population to secure the continued existence of so many of the species with which we are

This statement in itself provides an analog for humans, as well as an agenda for further discussion. We'll examine that agenda in our next
