NEWS BRIEFS: Free stroke seminar returns to Downey

DOWNEY – The RTH Stroke Foundation will be bringing its stroke education series back to the Rio Hondo Event Center, Monday, Oct. 24, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

This event offers a free blood pressure clinic and health fair, presented by the Diane Manarino Memorial Fund.

Diane Manarino suffered an unexpected major hemorrhagic stroke which ultimately caused her passing on June 30, 2016. Diane was merely 59 years of age at the time of her passing.

Did you know that 70 million American have high blood pressure? That's 1 out of 3 American adults. High blood pressure, and stress, was the cause of Diane's massive brain hemorrhage. The "Diane Manarino Memorial Fund" has been set-up by the RTH Stroke Foundation to raise awareness of the serious threat that high blood pressure and stress can pose.

This free event will spotlight maintaining and controlling blood pressure. There will be a brief presentation given by Dr. Jared Noroozi from the University of Southern California, KECK Medical Center.

In Memory of Daniel Anthony Pulone

Daniel Pulone was born March 24, 1933 in Los Angeles California and was a resident of Downey since 1978. As a young man he learned the trade of setting tile and marble, and worked in city government as the Director of Building and Safety for the City of Cudahy from 1971-93. For the last 20 years, Dan served as Supervisor Knabe's appointee to the County Property Appeals Board.

Dan was a proud veteran and served for 2 years in active duty and in the reserve for 6 years as a member of the 82nd Airborne Paratroopers. He was a member of the American Legion since 1958 and held the title of 1st Commander of the Bell Post. Dan was a parishioner of St. Raymond's Catholic Church.

Dan is survived by his wife of 60 years, JoAnn, children Susan Cannan (husband Dan), Daniel M. Pulone, Gina Tillman (husband Drew), Mark Pulone (wife Carrie), and grandchildren David Tillman, Michael Cannan, Lauren Tillman, Caroline Cannan, Caitlin Pulone, and Daniel Pulone. He joins in heaven his son Danny Joe Pulone, and grandchildren Jonathan Pulone and Annabella Pulone.

Services will be Monday, October 24 at St. Raymond's Catholic Church at 10:30 A.M. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the "Italian Catholic Federation" for a scholarship in Dan Pulone's name. Send to Charlene Drobeck, 7649 Cecilia St., Downey, CA, 90241.

Following the presentation, free blood pressure screenings will be given to all attendees, and they will have the opportunity to visit participating vendor booths. Medical professionals will also be present during the event to meet with attendees one-on-one to discuss screenings results, medication and treatment options, and follow-up care.

So take the first step to controlling your blood pressure and stress by becoming informed and join the RTH Stroke Foundation in this free seminar/clinic and health fair, Monday, October 24.

Please RSVP to the RTH Stroke Foundation by calling our toll-free number at 888-794-9466 or you can register online at rthfoundation. org.

This event is sponsored by the RTH Stroke Foundation, Diane Manarino Memorial Fund, LA Care Health Plan, The Downey Patriot and the Rio Hondo Event Center.

I don't like misleading campaign literature and I find that Frine Medrano is distributing just that.

I feel community experience and volunteering is critical to a good council member. Frine Medrano has none of that. In her mailings she lists no volunteer or city involvement yet states she can "get the job done right."

I, nor anyone I know, has ever saw her or heard her name in the dozens of organizations that I belong to. This worries me that a Sacramento expert is now wanting to run for Downey City Council.

residents

Most of the candidates running have a good history of city involvement -- not Sacramento involvement. I don't want someone who knows the bigwigs in Sacramento. I want someone who knows Downey. You should too.

According to her own mailings, she is "home grown." How? Just because she graduated high school here? Her material says "A lifelong commitment to public service"? Where is any commitment to Downey? Nothing mentioned at the debate either.

In my opinion, she is a poor choice to run our city. I suggest she Invest her time in our city first.

Come back from Sacramento with their lobbyists and deal-makers and gotten a stellar performance review. invest your time here.

Then in 5-10 years she will learn all about our great city and be qualified my tormentor, who was gay, had no interest in grabbing my genitals. to run for City Council.

No on Measure S

Dear Editor:

I just cast my ballot and voted NO on Measure S.

The city of Downey has let the infrastructure go to crap, services to deteriorate, and water rates to go through the roof. And they now want us to bail the city out while sitting on tens of millions in reserve for the current

They have proven to me that this is throwing good money after bad, and we will be stuck with this blatant cash grab for the next 20 years.

I voted NO on S, and urge others to vote no as well.

San Gabriel River

Most Downey residents have never walked, run, or biked along the San Gabriel Bike Trail between Florence Avenue and Firestone Boulevard. For those that use the trail frequently as a mean of exercise, there is increased disappointment at the deterioration of the riverbed.

Over the past decade, small trees have now become large. While the trees provide shade and shelter for homeless encampments, the unfortunate byproduct of the homeless is an excessive accumulation of trash and excrement left behind. The area described has now become unsightly.

Of greater concern in the potential impact of a major, prolonged rainstorm. The drought has lingered and the riverbed hasn't been "cleansed" by water flow in too many years. Unfortunately, the now massive accumulation of debris from further up river as well as the local riverbed garbage will be trapped in the overgrown trees. This situation will result in a slower flow of water potentially causing a rapid backup of water. A worse case scenario would be an overflow of the riverbed causing local areas to become flooded.

The Department of Public Works and the Army Corp of Engineers are responsible for river bed maintenance. Historically, large dump trucks would enter the riverbed and huge amounts of silt, sand and debris would be removed, resulting in the riverbed floor lowered to keep Downey and other without the fear of deportation. communities from flooding during that predicted 100-year flood.

I'm sure the cost of cleaning the riverbed, just for this small section, is potential flooding that could result in a major and prolonged rainstorm. We've seen that destruction in other parts of the United States (Hurricane Madeline just one current example) and I'm certain no one wishes that to happen to our City of Downey and other local communities.

Symphony concert

Dear Editor:

How great it is to give a Downey musician notice. ("For Lars Clutterham, Music is Life," 10/6/16)

Clutterham of Downey at their concert on Oct. 22. We knew Lars was an excellent choir director, a very accomplished pianist, and a talented speaker on composers and their music. Besides music, he is an advocate for bike riding and living "green."

Now retired from a career involved with music in films, he has time to compose. I would not miss this concert for anything.

Frine Medrano's unfit for City Council If Trump taught us anything, it's the danger of rewarding oppressive workplace behavior

Last May, The New York Times reported on a pattern of Donald Trump's vulgar behavior with women. Trump refuted every last accusation.

It's only now that a video of Trump's inappropriate behavior in action has come I also saw where her major funding is coming from and it isn't from local to light that the nation believes he's the type of man that several women have alleged him to be.

> Another recent article described how Donald Trump triggers victims of domestic abuse. I am a trauma survivor and an abuse victim, and I've been triggered by the GOP candidate myself.

Trump and my bully share the same playbook.

My bully, Alan Hutchison, was my supervisor at work. I was 25 and working at a medical software company, Epic Systems. He was my senior on a project at a hospital.

The project was ambitious, but I was more than competent at my job. I'd just

Trump and my bully exhibited similar personality traits. The difference is that Within six months, shortly after I bought my first house, Alan got me fired.

During those months, he gave me conflicting orders to guarantee that I'd disobey one, or he'd instruct me to do things that were bad for our client, and pressure me when I refused. I would be in trouble either way.

He forbid me to give clients the instruction manual for the software our company had sold them. He continued to add tasks to my workload, jeopardizing our ability to complete the project on time.

And sometimes, he just plain lied.

He had no qualms about harming the hospital in order to bully me.

I told my boss at work that Alan was bullying me, but he didn't believe me. By the time I tried to tell Human Resources, it was too late. They didn't believe me And there was no incriminating video to prove my case.

I lost my job for "customer dissatisfaction." I lost my house and all of my

The customers took me out to dinner a few weeks later. Their manager was furious when he found out I was let go. It took three people to replace me, they

Years later, a coworker on the project told me our company almost lost the entire account, and firing me was the start of their souring relationship with the

A decade later, I still have nightmares about my antagonizer.

I think we have two lessons to learn from my experience and from the recent

First of all, victims of bullies often aren't believed. The bullies are smooth operators. They deny everything and choose their victims well. It can take a leaked video before a bully is caught.

Second, it's not just bad to put a bully in charge at work — whether in the White House or any other job — because they're mean to their subordinates. It's also bad for the company — or, in this case, the country.

My bully put the work we were doing together in jeopardy in order to terrorize me. No company — or nation — can afford to have an employee sabotaging their

But workplace bullying is legal, and companies tend to promote bullies, not

My bully still holds his job. And although the odds aren't in his favor, Trump isn't out of the race just yet.

If Trump can give one gift to this nation, it's shining a light on these oppressors and the danger of tolerating them.

Roybal-Allard: Share your Hispanic heritage

Congresswoman Lucille Roybal-Allard (CA-40), the first Mexican-American woman elected to Congress and a member of the Congressional Hispanic Caucus, released a video last week in honor of Hispanic Heritage Month.

Below is a copy of Rep. Roybal-Allard's statement:

"Hello, I'm Congresswoman Lucille Roybal-Allard. Each year, from September 15th to October 15th, we gather as a nation to celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month by highlighting the many contributions our Latino communities have made to our country. These include enriching our arts and sciences, defending our country by bravely serving in our Armed Forces, creating millions of small businesses and jobs through our entrepreneurial spirit, and serving our communities as teachers, doctors, nurses, and law enforcement officers. These and many more contributions are cause for celebration, not only by Latinos, but by all Americans.

"Unfortunately, the full potential of Latinos to contribute to our nation is hampered by America's broken immigration system. That is why we must never give up our fight to pass a fair and comprehensive immigration bill.

"In the meantime, I am pleased that President Obama has taken some very positive steps. In 2012, the president used his executive authority to address weaknesses in our immigration system by initiating DACA, the Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program. This order has helped over 728,000 DREAMers to live

"In 2014, the president worked to expand DACA, and to initiate DAPA, Deferred Action for Parents of Americans and Lawful Permanent Residents. Disappointingly, the Supreme Court failed to clarify if DAPA and expanded DACA could proceed. Therefore, our fight continues for the millions of hardworking immigrants who contribute to our country while at the same time living in fear of being separated from their loved ones and of never having the opportunity to become a citizen in our country of freedom and hope.

"As we draw closer to the November election, let us also continue fighting to restore the Voting Rights Act. This act protects eligible Latino and minority voters from barriers to voting. As we approach a presidential election in which 14 states have, now, new discriminatory voting laws, we must ensure that no eligible American citizen is denied their right to be heard with their vote. I urge my Republican colleagues to work with congressional Democrats to restore the Voting Rights Act, and to develop legislation that will ensure Latinos and all Americans can fully enjoy America's freedom and opportunity.

"During this month of celebration, please share your Hispanic Heritage story by using the hashtag #HHM2016.

"¡Gracias y feliz Mes de la Herencia Hispana! Thank you, and happy Hispanic Heritage Month!"

I'm sure the cost of cleaning the riverbed, just for this small section, is enormous. Mitigation grants could be written with a proposal to clear the trees and the lower the river bed. While costly, it could be cheaper than the

The good news for Congress is that Americans understand that legislators in Washington have a tough job trying to make laws for a diverse and polarized nation. The bad news for Congress is that Americans still expect the national legislature to tackle that challenge, and most in the public believe Congress is failing to do the hard work necessary to bridge differences and achieve results.

That's the key finding of the latest survey of public attitudes about Congress bottom-scraping ratings from the public. conducted by the Indiana University Center on Representative Government. The annual survey is overseen by Edward G. Carmines, Distinguished Professor, Warner O. Chapman Professor of Political Science and Rudy Professor at IU.

"When we asked, 'How would you compare the polarization of members of The Downey Symphony will be playing a selection written by Lars Congress to the polarization among the American public?' 63 percent responded that they see the public as either just about as polarized as Congress, or even more polarized," Carmines said. "And when we asked, 'Would you say that most Americans typically agree on what Congress should do, or are there usually wide differences of opinion?' 83 percent said there are 'wide differences.'"

> But while it's evident that Congress faces a high degree of difficulty, Americans still come down hard on the legislators for failing to find a way forward. To the question, 'Overall, do you approve or disapprove of the way Congress business in a careful, deliberate way." is handling its job?' 81 percent disapprove. When asked, 'Who do you think is more responsible for the policymaking gridlock in Washington?' almost two times as many people say Congress is the primary culprit than blame solely President

"Americans recognize there are a lot of diverse opinions in the country, and that those opinions are often reflected in Congress," said Carmines. "But they do expect Congress to make some progress. It's policymaking capacity is just not very evident. When Congress seems to be immobilized, playing politics so much of the time, unable to address the country's problems, there's a diffuse disappointment and even anger that attends to the institution. Congress doesn't seem to be operating in a way that reflects the interests of the American people."

What to do? In a word, the survey says, compromise. "Should members of Congress stand up for their principles no matter what, or compromise with their opponents in order to get something done?" the survey asked. Fifty-five percent of the public said, "Compromise to get something done."

Those polled acknowledge that on certain issues, finding common ground to make law is especially difficult: On abortion and gun control, for instance, less than half the public expected members of Congress to compromise. But by contrast, solid majorities said that compromise should be possible on national security (55 percent), immigration (57 percent), health care (59 percent), and taxes (63 percent).

"Americans recognize that trying to get agreement in Congress is not easy. It's very difficult. There are lots of different solutions, lots of different priorities. But they expect Congress to at least work at it, and not to simply exacerbate differences on major problems facing the country," Carmines said.

Longtime U.S. Rep. Lee Hamilton, now senior advisor to the IU Center on Representative Government, frames the challenge this way: "Can Congress develop a reputation as an institution that seeks out ways to find agreement within each chamber, between the two chambers, and with the president?"

If Congress fails to answer that call, the consequence is likely to be continued

More than three-fourths of those surveyed said that either special interests or personal self-interest are the main influences on members of Congress. Asked if "information from my members of Congress is trustworthy," 54 percent either somewhat disagreed, or strongly disagreed. To the question, "Do members of Congress listen and care about what people like you think?" 62 percent said, no, not most of the time.

Asked to grade Congress on a scale of A to F, the public slapped Congress with low marks on a series of performance measures: Grades of D on "keeping excessive partisanship in check" and "controlling the influence of special interest groups"; D-plus grades on "dealing with key issues facing the country" and "holding its members to high standards of ethical conduct" and "conducting its Overall, says Carmines, "this is a pretty dim view of Congress. There is not a lot of confidence in our most representative institution.

An obvious choice for President

I am horrified that Donald Trump is running as a candidate for President of the United States.

His behavior is disgusting and embarrassing. He has no respect for anyone, he cares only about himself. He is a sexual predator who says that he can do anything to women because he is rich and famous. He is a pathological liar who denies global warming, unless it is convenient to raise the seawall for his golf course.

His hateful rhetoric towards anyone who dares to criticize him and his willingness to say or do anything to get his way puts him beyond being in a league with Fidel Castro or Hugo Chavez. There is only one other head of state he could be compared to: Adolf Hitler.

He degrades the United States around the world, making us look like a third-world dictatorship where the winner promises to put his opponents in jail. He is tearing this country apart and he makes me sick to my stomach every time I hear or see him.

Let's unite and vote on November 8 for the only decent, qualified candidate to lead this country: Hillary Clinton.

SHARED STORIES: HERE I AM, READY OR NOT

as treatment for a severe case of tuberculosis diagnosed when he was exhausted, and Jeanette says she believes Mom was pregnant was two. His loving family found medical help in Iowa City, over 200 miles from their family farm, and every few months Mervin made the journey to have the cast replaced on his growing body.

Shared Stories is a weekly column featuring articles by participants in a writing class at the Norwalk Senior Center. Bonnie Mansell is the instructor for this free class offered through the Cerritos College Adult Education Program. Curated by Carol Kearns

By Mervin Chantland

I was born December 13, 1934, on a small farm just outside Badger, Iowa, and was given the name Mervin Darvin Chantland. I was the ninth of Carl and Cora Chantland's 11 children. My claim to fame in my first year of life was related to be by my sister Jeanette. She said I walked at a younger age than any of the other children – in my crib at seven and one-half months and on my own at nine months.

Mom had been so lonesome for her life in Battle Lake, Minnesota, that Dad said she should go back and visit. My sisters offered to take care of me, only two years old at the time, but Mom said she wouldn't go without her baby. Jeanette tells the story of how she and the other girls went into town and bought me "the cutest coat and cap set" to wear on the trip. It was dark blue.

Dad took the two of us off by first driving us to Minneapolis where we took the train to Dalton, Minnesota to stay with Mom's relatives, the Fashaugs. All this time I had been fussing and crying that my hip hurt every time I walked.

Mom couldn't figure out why I was so fretful. This just wasn't like me. And Mom wasn't able to get very much rest as she tried everything she could think of to make me comfortable. From Dalton, we took the train to Duluth, and went from there to visit Mom's brothers and sisters in Mahtawa, Minnesota.

After our trip, when Dad came to pick up us, Mom said, "I never considering the rest of my story.

Dad took me to a doctor right away, determined to find out why I had seemed to be in such pain during the Minnesota trip. The doctor moved my leg and I cried out. An x-ray of my hip showed I had Tuberculosis (TB) of the hip bone.

I was taken for treatment to Iowa City University Hospital. Jeanette remembers that when they took me there and left me, I cried so loudly they could hear me from out in the street. Mom was so thankful to soon receive a letter from a nurse informing her that I had settled down all right and that they loved me very much.

When my mother was tested, she was found to have TB as well, so she had to leave her family and go to live in Oakdale Sanitarium near Iowa City. All of our family members were tested, checking to see if they reacted to a patch test on the arm. Older members were also given x-rays. They all turned out to be fine. Even Dad had escaped the infection, thank God.

All of our family members had to take cod liver oil – to make sure everyone remained healthy. Even all of the children who attended school with my brothers and sisters had to take the terrible-tasting stuff. According to Jeanette, this brought a lot of criticism on our family. My siblings were called "TB kids" and were teased and avoided in school.

That's how it was back then. TB was very contagious, could cause a lot of complications, and often required harsh treatment. My family stood it as best they could. They didn't have a choice.

When I finally came home from the hospital, I was in a body cast. This covered my entire right leg, went up under my arms, and then went down to my left knee. A bar was attached between my legs, to keep my legs separated and the hip stable. It was believed that I had

With our mother away, it fell to Dad and Jeanette, the oldest girl at home, to take care of me on the farm. It was very hard on them. Since "Walking at nine months!" That turned out to be pretty ironic, someone had to be up with me most of the time, Dad and Jeanette had to take turns every other night. I had to be carried everywhere, and the cast made me very heavy and clumsy to handle. I was basically a cheerful child, but I couldn't understand why I was suddenly not able to get down and play and walk around like I wanted. And it was hard for me to rest comfortably for very long at a time.

> In nice weather I was placed on the cellar lid outside so I could lie there and watch the other kids play. They tried to include me and make my life as normal as possible. Being in a cast during the summer was really miserable. It was very hot; but to make things even worse, I would itch everywhere under the cast and couldn't scratch myself. Back in those days, the women wore corsets made with "stays," long, flat metal pieces that kept the garments stiff. Jeanette took one of the stays from a corset and slid it up and down inside my cast to attack the itchy spots. It's unbelievable how good that felt.

> Eventually Dad decided that they couldn't continue to provide me with the constant care I needed. It was very hard on Dad and Jeanette to let me go, but they had become so worn down that they were afraid they were putting the health, and maybe even the lives, of all three of us in jeopardy. Jeanette still gets tears in her eyes when she says she was afraid I was not going to live.

> I was three years old when Dad hired Lou and Prof Knoll in Gilmore City, Iowa, to take me into their home and care for me. This was over 20 miles from our farm in Badger. Dad paid the Knolls $39 a month for my care and took them meat, eggs, and milk from the farm to help out.

Please join us for Environmental Scoping Meetings I-605 Corridor Improvement Project

The Los Angeles County Metropolitan Transportation Authority (Metro) and the California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) District 7, in collaboration with the Gateway Cities Council of Governments and the San Gabriel Valley Council of Governments, are proposing improvements on Interstate 605 (I-605) between Interstate 10 (I-10) and Interstate 105 (I-105) as part of the I-605 Corridor Improvement Project. In addition to improving I-605, the proposed project includes related improvements on State Route 60 (SR-60) from Santa Anita Ave to east of Turnbull Canyon Rd and on Interstate 5 (I-5) from Florence Ave to Paramount Bl. The proposed project is intended to ease traffic, congestion and improve public safety.

Metro and Caltrans are formally initiating public scoping meetings which will better inform the evaluation of possible improvements and the Project's environmental studies. Scoping meetings are an important step in the preparation of a Draft Environmental Impact Report/Environmental Impact Statement (Draft EIR/EIS) in accordance with State and Federal requirements.

We will be accepting comments to help shape the studies through December 1, 2016. There will be additional opportunities to provide input as the studies progress.

We welcome you to attend the meeting that is most convenient to you. Agenda and presentation materials will be exactly the same for all meetings.

Warren High students rally to elect their homecoming king

■ WARREN HIGH: Victor Tellez voted homecoming king after classmates launch social media campaign.

By Alex Dominguez Contributor

DOWNEY – In a rousing group effort, the Warren High School Bears came together to help a very special young man take his seat as king of Homecoming Court.

Victor Tellez is a senior at Warren, part of the special education program. Tellez, who has Down syndrome, often spends many of his days socializing with members of the campus Teen Connect Club.

According to club advisor Christine Spino, the purpose of the club is to build a bridge between special education and general education students.

"I have about 250 general ed to have every high school experience."

With homecoming just around the corner, several club members took it upon themselves to try and give one particular student – Tellez – one of the ultimate high school for his part of the Homecoming experiences.

"My leadership team came to me and asked if they could do it," said Spino. "...they all just got on their Twitter and sent his picture out and asked [all the students] to nominate him..."

Stephanie Errichetto, who was also a member of the homecoming court, was one of said Spino, "and they just did the students who helped plant it....' the seeds of Tellez's nomination.

The significance behind Saturday's Downey Symphony concert

opening of MARCAR Real Estate business. Brokers Corp taking place this week, Downey's newest broker Carlos Martinez is anxious to secure his spot in the community. Downey Patriot Contributor Alex Dominguez sat down with Martinez to discuss his business, personal life, goals, and vision for the future.

AD: For people who don't know you – if someone were to walk up to you in the middle of Downey and say "Who are you?"-What would you say?

CM: I'm a real estate broker. Also a MLO. That's my profession. A person that just started in the community of Downey. Probably community. I have a two year old also here, a partner of mine. She's able to balance our lives together so we can kind of make to my son and be able to take Family. care of the business.

AD: Tell me a little bit Downey specifically?

DOWNEY – With the grand about your background in your

CM: I'm second generation. My parents both - my dad did the lending side, and my mother was in real estate. Since I was nine years old it's been real estate passing out flyers, being able to communicate - that was pretty much my job as a young child. As I grew into the business...I went to college out at North Western out in Iowa. It was a very different experience coming from California and going to a completely different state. But doing the school there I always was more of a family decision to had the passion of real estate...

AD: I've noticed a very strong family trend. Strong family ties?

CM: Yes. I think it's important. about a year and a half ago I I get wrapped up, don't get me started trying to get closer to the wrong, you know? I get in my zone. But then always at the end son. Married to my wife – she's of the day you just gotta put your feet on the ground and touch what's real. So that's something that I try personally to keep in sure we still give the quality time the back of my mind at all times.

AD: What brought you to raised here since '91, '92. I'm from Ontario so when I met my wife we got married, and it's always good to be close to family. Her parents are here in Downey; they've been here also since the 90's. So it's something where we felt it was the best thing...We have an office in Los Angeles, and then I said 'OK, between her and I, we have to be close.' We have a two year old, we're going to take him to school. Let's be close and let's build a community...

AD: So coming to Downey stay close?

CM: Stay close with the community. We realized that we were Monday through Sunday just business. I feel like with our son especially he needs to go to school here, we need to build some kind of bond with more people so that at any moment you never know what we can offer, and what they can also assist us or help us with.

looking to get more involved in the community. How are you looking to do that? Is it here or just in an event, people personally?

CM: Right now, for example, our main focus is reaching out to people of our church. We're here at OLPH. We were able to get married through that church, and build a bond. Right now we're focusing on Wednesdays we do Church activities for younger children, trying to get their first communion. Trying to get involved with that...After meeting more people in the area they offered me the opportunity to be able to join Kiwanis. Meeting Eric [Pierce], it was awesome the way he described it, it sounds like it's a great opportunity to give back. Without just being corny or anything, I truly feel giving - at one point God will return, will give back without you even expecting it...

AD: You're still pretty new to the city of Downey. What are some first impressions?

CM: I love it, man. I mean it's something where you just AD: I understand you're see the potential...you can see what's expanding...when I go around the neighborhood CM: My wife....she's [been] through your business, or more actually acknowledge you...very very competitive here in real welcoming, they make you feel at estate, and it is. There's a lot of home, the community as itself...I think it's a great opportunity and experience.

> AD: Do you think that's what also brings other people looking to either move or bring their business here? Is that what draws them? The great relationships that everyone seems to have?

CM: I honestly think so...it's getting to a point where we're able to experience getting to know other business minded. They're establishing here, their homes are here. More people than I ever thought! It's just AD: What do you see coming down in the future for yourself, your family, your business etc.?

CM: I honestly see it as being a base to build a lot more relationships and business as a whole. It's very competitive; I know I'm another real estate broker and there's many here. But hopefully we can show the difference...

AD: You mentioned that it's real estate agencies and brokers here. Is that intimidating coming into this market?

CM: It's intimidating. It gets to a point where at the end competition is everywhere...I think that's what makes me want to strive and push for more. If the big guys are here, then we who are starting can also find growth. Intimidating but in a good way.

Intimidating AD: motivating as well...

CM: Exactly! To know that you're located in a place where it's known for real estate... because of so many different types of entrepreneurs, they see different opportunities in real estate...We're looking forward to it. We're excited with our grand opening Thursday...it's something where we're hopeful that the community gets to know a little bit more about us...

Bob Dylan has won the Nobel Prize and everybody's gonna jump for joy. If there ever was a true and right decision made by a Committee, this is it. Poetry as an art form predates literacy, so poems were joined with music when they were presented. Today, the page is Dylan's

Everyone has their favorite vintage Dylan song going around in their head. Does the prize goes to Dylan the hilarious, the weird surrealist, the score-keeping lover, the angry fighter the outlaw? Or the mystic musician, the shaman, the wise, the foolish, the Chaplinesque the rabbinical, the goofy prankster, the lounge singer, the holy roller Dylan: that's how David Remnick described him in Rolling Stone. The Nashville Dylan wrote folk music and hillbilly and country western and blues and peopled then with characters from history, literature, legend, the Bible, the Greeks, the Elizabethans. Here's one of his proto-

A PETITION FOR PHOBATE has been filed by Gerald D. Wheeler and Kimberly Lynn Dorio in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Gerald D. Wheeler and Kimberly Lynn Dorio be appointed as personal supersortative to administration to be calculated by the contraction to administration to the contraction of the contraction representative to administer the estate of

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Oct. 28, 2016 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. Alleged mistress claims Downey councilman Luis Marquez and wife intimidated her to keep baby a secret

■ ELECTION: Maribel Zavala is suing Downey council member for custody and child support.

By Alex Dominguez Contributor

DOWNEY – A mere week after a potential baby scandal involving Councilman Luis Marquez came to light, the child's mother has come forward with official documents confirming that the alleged out-of-wedlock child is indeed his.

Both council member Marquez and his wife, city council hopeful Alma Marquez, have been in the center of controversy since news broke that Marquez may have fathered a child during an affair, and that he and his political position to intimidate saying: and quiet the mother during the current election.

the situation concerning her child, even after the Downey Patriot published an article and explanation of publication last

However, Zavala has now come forward with official well as the official results of the court mandated paternity test.

The documents, provided to the Downey Patriot by Zavala, appear to confirm that Marquez is the father of Zavala's child.

Zavala released a statement wife both may have used their along with the documents,

> "It is with a sad heart that I publicly knowledge and affirm

Zavala, who claims to have had Downey City Council Member an extramarital relationship Luis Marquez and that we had with Marquez, has been a son together. We are currently extraordinarily silent about in legal proceedings to establish paternity, custody, and child support.

"At the time of our relationship, Mr. assured me he was divorced. When I informed him that I was pregnant, he was happy but court documents filed with the asked that I keep my pregnancy Superior Court of Los Angeles, as discreet due to his political position. He said he would recognize our son after his term in the Downey city council was over. Soon afterwards, I found out Luis was still married to Alma Marquez, but he insisted that they were separated.

> "By the time our son was born, I no longer had a relationship with Luis, but he had a relationship with our son for a whole year until Alma found out about our child. Afterwards, Luis ceased all emotional and financial support for our son.

"In June of this year, Luis requested that I meet with them at their home to discuss our family situation; I agreed but requested a public location. At the meeting, Alma Marquez shared that her husband was planning to run for a local water board, she was going to run for Downey City Council, and it was

Up to this point, Maribel that I have been involved with my best interest to remain silent about our child.

> "I decline their offer and asked both that Luis legally acknowledges that he is the father of our son as a responsible father not as a negligent one. I was then intimidated and Marquez threaten that bad things will happen to me and my son and that I would regret it if I go public to acknowledge Luis as the father of my son.

> > "After the meeting, I did not hear from Luis and he has not seen our son for over six months now. I decided to put the intimidation and fear aside and do what is right for my child and moved forward with legal proceedings. After I filed, Luis got served with two months of anticipation and he still did not file a response nor attended family mediation.

> > "On 10/04/2016 at our court hearing, Luis stated that he was not sure he was the father and the iudge ordered a paternity test. I personally schedule the paternity test for the following day, and he did not show up therefore it had

"The test results confirmed he is the father of my son. Unfortunately, he continues to deny our son believing that I would stay quiet as he and his wife Alma Marquez asked me to.

"I share this personal story elected official is using his public office not only for personal gain, but also to intimidate the mother of his child. I am sad that I had to take the legal route to defend our son, who is the only victim here neglected by Luis for so

Norwalk's Excelsior High auditorium may be renamed

By Raul Samaniego Contributor

NORWALK - At the Oct.10 meeting of the Norwalk La Mirada Unified School District Board of Education, a proposal from Board Member Darryl Adams to rename the Excelsior High School Auditorium was introduced.

Adams' recommendation was to rename the auditorium after former educator and Norwalk All City Band Director, Mr. Lee Mitchell.

With years over commitment to students, families and people of the communities of Norwalk, La Mirada, Bellflower and surrounding areas, Mitchell stated in a 2015 interview as to his reasons for coming to the district.

"I just wanted to teach music," he said.

Adams recited his reluctance to rename school properties, but in this case, he feels Mitchell is deserving of the honor and came forth with the proposal after contemplating the idea for several vears.

The naming guidelines of school properties states, "Names proposed for district facilities or properties shall have significance for the students who will attend the site, and should not cause confusion with the names of other sites in the district."

A proposal must be made in writing with a supporting statement. The guidelines also painted over during the last major

The auditorium is hosting available for special events, such as this past June's open house at the All-Class (Excelsior) picnic.

The Excelsior High School campus closed in 1982, but has been the site for the Norwalk La Mirada Unified School District Adult School for many years since.

First-time homebuyers boost home sales in September

Existing-home sales rebounded strongly in September and were towards the end of summer created more opportunities for aspiring August and 29 percent a year ago. First-time buyers represented 30 propelled by sales from first-time buyers reaching a 34 percent share, first-time homeowners to buy last month." which is a high not seen in over four years, according to the National Association of Realtors. All major regions saw an increase in closings last month, and distressed sales fell to a new low of 4 percent of the Total existing-home sales, which are completed transactions that include single-family homes, townhomes, condominiums and co-ops, hiked 3.2 percent to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 5.47 million in September from a downwardly revised 5.30 million in August. After last month's gain, sales are at their highest pace since June (5.57) million) and are 0.6 percent above a year ago (5.44 million).

Lawrence Yun, NAR chief economist, says the two-month slump in existing sales reversed course convincingly in September. "The home search over the past several months for a lot of prospective buyers, and especially for first-time buyers, took longer than usual because of the competition for the minimal amount of homes for sale," he said. "Most families and move-up buyers look to close before the

The median existing-home price for all housing types in September was $234,200, up 5.6 percent from September 2015 ($221,700). September's price increase marks the 55th consecutive month of year-over-year gains.

Total housing inventory at the end of September rose 1.5 percent to 2.04 million existing homes available for sale, but is still 6.8 percent lower than a year ago (2.19 million) and has now fallen year-over-year for 16 straight months. Unsold inventory is at a 4.5-month supply at the current sales pace, which is down from 4.6 months in August.

"Inventory has been extremely tight all year and is unlikely to improve now that the seasonal decline in listings is about to kick in," added Yun. "Unfortunately, there won't be much relief from new home construction, which continues to be grossly inadequate in relation to demand."

Matching the highest share since July 2012, first-time buyers were new school year starts. Their diminishing presence from the market 34 percent of sales in September, which is up from 31 percent in percent of sales in all of 2015.

"There's hope the leap in sales to first-time buyers can stick through the rest of the year and into next spring," explained Yun. "The market fundamentals — primarily consistent job gains and affordable mortgage rates — are there for the steady rise in first-timers needed to finally reverse the decline in the homeownership rate."

On the topic of first-time buyers, NAR President Tom Salomone, broker-owner of Real Estate II Inc. in Coral Springs, Florida said government-sponsored enterprises Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac have a duty to ensure there's access to mortgage credit for creditworthy borrowers wanting to buy a home.

"Unfortunately, overly burdensome fees at the GSEs are making homeownership difficult for moderate-income buyers. Fannie and Freddie can reduce the cost of borrowing while still protecting taxpayers, and we're hopeful they'll take these steps to ensure prospective buyers are able to enter the market," he said.
